George R.R. Martin has claimed that Scott's novels were a major influence for the A Song of Ice and Fire series, known to fans around the world as Game of Thrones.

We strive to use as many locally sourced Scottish ingredients wherever possible.

Scott's Waverley, published in 1814, was a record-breaking novel. It sold more copies than all other UK novels combined in 1814.

OCHILTREE'S DINING

Edinburgh's Waverley Station is the only station in the world named after a novel.
